

I don't know if this is the proper place to address this, but I didn't see a category for rules on normal radio and TV content. I just wanted to say that the FCC should not be abridging free speech and trying to enforce puritan morality on the American people. The recent fine action against Howard Stern and the investigation over Janet Jackson baring her breast on TV (talk about a tempest in a teapot!) are a national embarrassment. The absurd anti-sexuality bias of such rulings makes the United States government the laughing stock not only of its own citizens but of the entire world. Michael Powell needs to stop taking his cues from John Ashcroft and just chill out.
